First Circular Letter
Announcement and Invitation
08 March 2008

We are much honored to hold the 6th International Symposium on Mobile Mapping Technology - MMT'09 - at our University campus. We strongly invite and encourage all students, professionals, researchers, academics, business and industry people to participate in this important event.

The main objective of the conference is to discuss the most recent technology and its application, to exchange experiences and to promote future research aiming at the development and the production in the fields related to mobile mapping. The topics of interest are focused on the state-of-the-art in many important scientific and technological, and also cultural, issues related to the MMT'09, with the major objective of making human life safer, easier, and more comfortable in the near future.

For the moment, you may want to check out the website to get the preliminary information so you can start planning your participation in the MMT '09.

We look forward to seeing you here in Presidente Prudente, SP, Brazil.
